Summary

Am designer! Am Poet, am sculpture, am painter and I am ready to be anything. I say it because of faith and with no other choice to be. Because I live in art and design, when these brought together with honesty, each step of process become powerful and outcome effective.

Most importantly I am bad with words (sometimes I am very good), language is not enough, it's worse of all! So thus the concept of becoming creator have lead me to use clothing as medium to communicate and share stories.

I have higher expectations, which make me do better. Overall I have no idea why I chose fashion. I could have been an amazing scientist.

Think Saville Row finesse and Victorian proportions for 21st century dressing.

QUOD is designed by Ikshit PANDE, an erstwhile business graduate with about a decade in the fields of advertising and brand communication.
